On behalf of the University of Brandon Students

The CSEG Calgary office,

I would personally like to thank the CSEG for sponsoring our five Brandon University students for travel expenses to attend the Annual 2009 CSEG conference in Calgary, Alberta on May 4-8. As student geoscientist we are learning the integrated approach industry takes to exploration and economic extraction in the oil and gas sector. Learning the intricacies of the tools and analytical aspect of geology and geophysics can help us create a better picture of what we are looking at. Some of the presentations were very informative and will assist us in the future with our endeavors.

The Challenge bowl was a fun exercise for us to be involved in and was a great icebreaker at the conference. As we are working towards getting a geophysics program at our university, I would hope our performance could assist in our university pursuing this avenue of geophysics. In the future we will hope to send more students to the conference and the challenge bowl!

Thank you again for the CSEG's financial support.

Sincerely,

Mackenzie Desautels
